

ALUMNI WEBINAR SERIES

Leading Academics Through the “Messy Middle”: Insights from Macquarie University’s Mid Career Researcher (MCR) Development Program

- Are you a mid-career academic seeking clarity and community in your leadership journey?
- Wondering how to move from "me" to "we" in your research leadership approach?
- Curious to learn how an award-winning university supports growth across career stages?

Prof. Amanda Barnier

Pro Vice-Chancellor (Research Performance and Development),
Professor of Cognitive
Science, Macquarie
University

- 9:00 AM on May 19, 2025 (IST)
- 11:30 AM on May 19, 2025 (HKT)
- 11:30 PM on May 18, 2025 (EDT)

A Zoom link will be sent to your registered email address

Join us for this engaging session as Professor Amanda Barnier shares lessons from Macquarie University’s flagship MCR Development Program, designed to empower mid-career researchers. Learn how structured mentorship, leadership values, and collaborative strategies are being used to build vibrant and resilient academic communities.

Together, we will explore:

- ✓ The challenges and opportunities of the “messy middle” in academia
- ✓ How mentoring programs can evolve across academic career stages
- ✓ Strategies to align career vision with institutional research cultures
- ✓ Lessons from Macquarie’s Research Strategy 2035 and its impact on leadership development

CLICK HERE TO REGISTER

